

Title: Yelp Dataset Challenge

Introduction:

Yelp connects people to great local businesses. To help people find great local businesses, Yelp engineers have developed an excellent search engine to sift through over 89 million reviews and help people find the most relevant businesses for their everyday needs.

Yelp is proud to introduce a deep dataset for research minded academics from our wealth of data. If you've been looking for a rich set of data to train your models on and use in publications, this is it. Tired of using the same standard datasets? Want some real world relevance in your research project? This data is for you!

How well can you guess a review's rating from its text alone? Can you take all of the reviews of a business and predict when it will be the most busy, or when the business is open? Can you predict if a business is good for kids? Has WiFi? Has Parking? What makes a review useful, funny, or cool? Can you figure out which business a user is likely to review next? How much of a business's success is really just location, location, location? What businesses deserve their own subcategory (i.e., Szechuan or Hunan versus just "Chinese restaurants"), and can you learn this from the review text? What are the differences between the cities in the dataset? There is a myriad of deep, machine learning questions to tackle with this rich dataset.

If you are a student and come up with an appealing project, you'll have the opportunity to win one of up to ten Yelp Dataset Challenge awards for $5,000. Yes, that's $5,000 for showing us how you use our data in insightful, unique, and compelling ways.

Additionally, if you win the challenge and then publish a research paper about your winning research in a peer reviewed academic journal, then you'll be awarded an additional $1,000 as recognition of your publication. If you are published, Yelp will also contribute up to $500 to travel expenses to present your research using our data at an academic or industry conference. There is no cost to enter, no purchase required, and you need not be a Yelp user or hold a registered Yelp account to participate.
